Original Poetry.

For the Republican.

LINES TO MRS. McK—.

'Twas just one year ago to-day,
When by your side I sat;
And watched your fingers nimbly fly,
While we enjoyed a chat.

As we talked of the gloomy past,
The present—free and bright;
And the future, with sky o'ercast,
You smiled with pure delight.

And bade me think no more of days,
That crept so slowly by;
And prophesied that through the haze,
There was unclouded sky,

And laurel wreaths, about to fall
Upon an orphans head;
These words were sweet, I loved them all,
These golden words you said.

Those happy days are past and gone,
Their shadow still remains;
And it has proved, that distance will
Break friendship's firmest chains.

BECKIE.

For the Republican.

TRUST NOT.

BY BECKIE HARRIS.

Beneath a face of purest caste,
Where smiles go flitting by:
And angry passions seem to last,
Like sunbeams in the sky,
A serpent lies,
With glaring eyes,
He's planing well a plot;
To masticate
Some helpless mate,
Beware! Trust not.

Friend after friend, extends a hand,
And vows fidelity;
And yet a hair will break the band
That holds him true to thee.
His wine he'll quaff,
And loudly laugh,
At your unhappy lot;
Though friends are fair,
Once more, beware,
Trust not! Trust not!

Select Miscellany.

At The Bridge.

BY FAIRFAX FERGUSON.

"They are late, May, are they not? What can have detained them?"

"I am sure I cannot tell. I fancied I heard the ring of horses' hoofs a moment since. Hark! I hear it plainer now."

The speaker stood on the verandah of a large mansion in one of the Southern States. The first, Louise Lamont, was a tall, handsome brunette, with dark, languishing eyes and raven tresses. Her cousin Mabel was the handsomer of the two. Perfect symmetry of form combined with regular, delicate features; her golden hair falling in ringlets over her faultless shoulders, she presented a picture of loveliness but rarely met with.

Both the girls were in riding-habits, and in one neatly gloved hand Louise held a riding-whip, with which she impatiently tapped the toe of the dainty slipper that peeped out from beneath her skirt.

At one side, negligently leaning against a pillar, his dark eyes fixed upon May's fair face, was the figure of a young man, apparently about twenty years of age—In features, Clarence Lamont resembled his sister Louise; but while one face was a type of pure womanly beauty, there was a hardness about the mouth of the other that told of a far different nature.

"Ah! here they come at last," cried Louise. "But Amy is alone, what can have detained Ernest?"

As she spoke, a young lady mounted upon a pretty little pony rode at a rapid pace up the piazza, and before Clarence could reach her side, she had sprung from her saddle and affectionately greeted her two friends as they ran down the steps.

"Ernest was unexpectedly obliged to go to V——this morning," she said in reply to May's eager inquiry; but will meet us at the little bridge."

"Come, then, brother, let us mount and away," cried Louise, gaily.

"John is bringing the horses," was the reply. "Come, May," he added, as May's poney was brought up.

Soon all were mounted, and then May and Clarence and all rode off.

"Cousin May, let us ride on and reach the bridge first. Louise and Miss Halstead are deep in some confidential conference and will scarcely miss us"

Mabel acceded, and soon Louise and her friend were left behind. A turn in the road soon hid them from their sight, and slacking their horses' speed, Clarence said:

"Mabel, I have something to say to you; something that will influence my whole future life. Can you not guess what it is?"

A look of surprise came over the fair listener's face, and she said:

"Indeed, Clarence, I can think of nothing you could say to me of such great importance."

"It is this," and his face flushed, and his voice was low with emotion, "I love you, May; I have loved you deeply, passionately, since I first saw you. Will you be my wife?"

"O Clarence, I cannot; I am so sorry." And the maiden covered her face with her hands.

"O May, give me some hope; do not cast me off without a hope of winning your love!" he pleaded.

"Clarence, I cannot! I have no right!"

A strange look came into Clarence Lamont's eyes, but in a moment it was gone, and he said:

"O May, why do you thus repulse my love? Why can you not bid me hope?"

"Never can I be aught to you but a friend, Clarence, and a friend I will always be."

Again that strange look come over his face and an evil light shone in his eyes, as he hissed between his set teeth:

"Girl, you have trifled with me. You have won the heart of a true man, and now you throw it from you. Beware!"

"No, Clarence, I have not trifled with you," the maiden's voice was clear and steady now, "I am betrothed to another."

"I have—"

The words died upon his lips, for the sharp ring of hoofs caused him to look up, and he saw coming toward them at a terrific pace, a horse, riderless, at first he thought, but as it came nearer, he saw the form of man half thrown from the saddle, yet clinging to the almost flying steed

"O heavens! the bridge—the bridge!" and Mabel's voice rang out in a wild, despairing cry. One glance and Clarence saw the cause of May's alarm; the bridge was gone, washed away by the angry waters, and in its place a yawning abyss far too wide for a horse to leap, and toward this the frightened steed was coming at frightful leaps.

On, on, came the horse, panting with terror and exertion, till it stood upon the very brink of the chasm, and then, with a moment's hesitation, the leap was taken. As the horse hesitated upon the bank, the rider strove to disengage himself from his doomed steed; but it was too late, and with a wild cry he was hurled into the abyss.

Mute with suspense, the two riders sat stricken dumb with terror until the instant that the frightened steed hesitated upon the brink of the abyss, and then as both recognized the doomed rider, Mabel shrieked:

"O Ernest, Ernest!"

One look at the maiden's agonized face, and Clarence had read her secret, and an evil, sinister glow lit up his countenance.

"O Clarence, save him, save him!" and the maiden laid her hand upon his arm, and looked pleadingly up into his face.

With one spring, Clarence had reached the edge of the chasm, and gazed anxiously down into the roaring waters, and then he saw the half submerged body of Ernest Halsted desperately clinging to a part of the bridge that remained in the midst of the angry waters.

His wicked heart gave a triumphant bound as he thus recognized the deadly peril of his rival, and turning to May, who stood mute with terror by the side of her passive steed, he hoarsely whispered:

"Mabel, I will save him on one condition, and that is—"

"What, what? O Clarence speak quickly!"

"Promise to be my wife."

"I cannot! I cannot! Do not torture me thus. Save him, I command you!"

"Promise, and I will."

"I cannot."

"Then he shall die!" and he turned fiercely away.

"O Clarence, do not leave him! Save him, save him! I promise anything, only save him!"

Triumphant now, Clarence caught the bridle from his horse, and with one look at May, advanced until he stood upon the brink of the chasm, and then, leaning far over, he flung the reins down to the drowning man. Eagerly he grasped them, and clung with all his fast declining strength to the timely succor.

"Remember your promise," cried Clarence, as he turned for an instant toward the maiden, and then again bent to his task. But suddenly, with a wild cry, he cast the bridle far from him, and sprang backward; but it was too late, the bank on which he stood, already loosened from its base by the foaming torrent, s'id forward into the seething waters, burying beneath it the body of Clarence Lamont.

Another shriek came from the maiden's lips, but she did not faint. Nerved by fear, she sprang forward and gazed eagerly down into the chasm, and there she saw her lover manfully struggling with the waves, but still clinging to the bridle.

When Clarence tossed the bridle from him, it caught upon a low bush that grew upon the bank, and toward this the maiden turned with a low cry of joy.—Grasping it she exerted her strength to aid her lover, and not in vain, for soon the strain ceased, and in another instant Ernest Halstead had clambered to the solid earth and stood upon the bank before her.

"Saved! saved!" she murmured and then all her strength deserted her, and she sank to the earth.

Pale and weak with his exertions, her lover bent over her and gently raised her prostrated form to his bosom. Then as she slowly opened her eyes, he whispered:

"Darling May, to you I owe my life. Look up, dearest."

A sweet smile was his answer, and bending his head, he pressed a kiss upon her pale cheek.

"Clarence, May, where are you?" cried the voice of Louise at this moment; and in another instant the two girls rode up.

"Why, May, what is the matter?—Where is brother?" was the startled inquiry of Louise, as, with sudden alarm, she sprang from her horse and hurried forward.

Soon the story was told, and with pale, grief-stained faces, the little party proceeded homeward.

It was late in the day ere the body of Clarence Lamont was recovered; and when he was laid in the tomb none wept more deeply than his gentle cousin.

Three months after there was a quiet wedding at the Halstead mansion, and there is no need to tell who were the two that were made one.

Never, not even to her husband, has May told the story of her promise at the bridge; but, burying it in the past, she remembers it only as the fault of her unfortunate cousin.

Marriage Shorn of Poetry.

The Rev. D., a Methodist minister, stationed at Meadville some years ago, one evening received a note informing him that a couple living in the suburbs of the city desired to be united in the bonds of matrimony, and requested his services at 9 o'clock in the morning. At the proper time he went to the house designated. He inquired of a young lady who was busy washing dishes if there was a couple here who wished to be married.

"I am the lady," said she, blushing. "John will be in in a moment."

The minister was surprised to see no preparations, and stepped to the door to view the surroundings. Two men were hard at work grinding scythes in the yard, and another, who proved to be the "John," was tending a cow and a calf. The young lady came to the door pretty soon and shouted:

"John, John, hurry up: the preacher's here!"

John leaped the fence, rushed to the house, the girl wiped her hands on her apron, and after joining hands, said they were ready. The minister proceeded, and had just got through with the young man when the old lady rushed into the room, shouting:

"John, John, you didn't turn the cow away from the calf."

He let go his sweetheart's hand instantly, and rushed into the barnyard, put the old cow through the bars, and then returned to the house, again took his position, when the remainder of the ceremony was performed. The minister went on his way, John went to the hay field, and the lady resumed her dish-washing.

Watching And Waiting.

Could a history of the effects of the late war upon domestic relations of the land be written, many such affecting stories as the following, from a Cincinnati paper, would be found therein:

Mrs Pandre, the poor insane woman who has been standing in the centre of the street, on the corner of Longworth and Plum streets, for several years, waiting and watching for the return of her husband, who was killed at the battle of Gettysburgh, has recently became convinced that there is a high fence standing between herself and husband, that hides him from her sight, and to overcome the obstacle she has procured a small box, which she has attached to her waist by a smell cord, and whenever she is at her post, she places the box upon the ground and stands upon it, feeling that this will so increase her height, that she can look over the fence and see the precious one for whom she has waited so long in vain. We understand that just as soon as the cold, stormy days of winter come, this unfortunate creature will be sent out to Longview, where she can receive the treatment which her unfortunate condition demands.

The Fashions.

Hiram Green, the humorous contributor of the Troy Budget, talks of the fashions:

"Whoops is discarded and cut off with a shillilin', like the prodigal sons who roll em in the parks. It is a safe bet to say that whoops has gone back to their legitimate okupashun of embracing barrell staves, instead of starvingly embracing the forms of earth's fairest flowers.

"In gentlemen's shoes gimlet holes have been worn pooty extensively in the toes. These, we suppose, is vents to carry of the bad air.

"Waterfalls, owin to the late freshets, has riz a good eel. It takes now about 4 yards of canowl hosis tails to supply fust-class bells with this article of headgeer. Ladies, to balance their waterfalls, are sometimes forsed to stoop forward. This produces the greshun bend.

"Steal trimmins haint so fashionable as they used to be with wimmin folkes, but amongst the men, if newspapers don't lie, it is gettin to be adopted pooty lively. Unlike any uther fashun, draw backs seem to give the steal fashun a hist."

A French girl asked the priest the other day, "Why is it, father that we ask every day for our daily bread instead of asking for a week, a month or a year?" "Why, you little goose, to have it fresh, to be sure," was the reply.

"What flower of beauty shall I marry?" asked a young spendthrift of his miserly governor. To which the governor replied, with a grim smile, "Marigold."

Misers take as much care of their money as if they owned it, and use it as if they didn't.

Foolishness of Intemperance.

BY "BRICK POMEROY."

The habit of liquor drinking is, to our mind, the most foolish, inexcusable piece of destructive nonsense in the world. And nowhere is it more prevalent than in cities. The money poured down the throats of men each year is greater than the amount spent for improvements. Whiskey-shops, saloons, gin-mills, beer-cellars, wine-rooms, and all sorts of irrigational devices and places to fool away money, are found by the hundreds and thousands in cities. If a man is tired, he drinks. If doing nothing, he must have a nip each hour. If too warm, he takes a mint julep. If too cold, a hot whiskey. If he is by himself, out comes a flask or bottle. If in company, he stands treat till his money be gone, then, like a dead beat, sits around till some one asks him up.

A man on moderate salary steps into a saloon, invites half-a-dozen friends to drink, pays half a dollar or more, and walks on. Three or four times a day he repeats this, and always drinks when asked. It is social. Men mean nothing by it. But during the week half a man's salary is poured down his throat, destroying his stomach, weakening his nerves, over-exciting his brain, robbing himself and family of money needed for other purposes. But it is social! Drink in the morning—at noon—at night—and then a few times between drinks. Then brain whirls—the hand becomes unsteady—the pocket empty—the home ones suffer—the eye looks red and tremulous, as if ashamed—ambition is drowned or poisoned. Pretty soon the poor fellow is unfit for business. He makes mistakes. He is sick, unable to work. He is not the man to be relied on. He leaves his place, and in time finds a poorer one. Then he feels blue, drinks still more—his family suffers—he leaves his place again, and at last he dies a wretch. But it is social!

We believe a man has a right to kill himself suddenly or by slow poison. It may be none of our business in the abstract, yet we are sorry to see men fooling themselves away, dying like weeds in a gutter, when they might be men, upright, healthy, loved, and useful; of benefit to themselves and others. And this is why we write against intemperance. Health is too precious to be wasted. Manhood is too noble to be thrown into the gutter. Life is too sweet to be drugged with poisons now compounded and sold as liquors. To drink poison may be social, but it costs too much for us or for any man of sense who loves himself or others. Who of our readers dare think of this matter, and act as their better judgment shall dictate?

The Duties of a Mother.

She should be firm, gentle, kind; always ready to attend to her child.

She should never laugh at him, at what he does that is cunning—never allow him to think of his looks, except to be neat and clean in all his habits.

She should teach him to obey a look, to respect those older than himself.—She should never make a command without seeing that it is performed in the right manner.

Never speak of a child's faults or foibles, or remarks before him; it is a sure way to spoil a child.

Never reprove a child while excited, nor let your voice be raised when correcting him. Strive to inspire love, not dread—respect, not fear.

Teach your child to wait upon himself; to put away a thing when done with it. But do not forget that you were once a child. The griefs of little ones are too often neglected—they are great for them. Bear patiently with them, and never in any way rouse their anger if it can be avoided.

DUTIES OF A WIFE AND HOUSEKEEPER.

Your first and highest duty is to make home happy for your husband, and how to make it should be your constant study.

Be always ready to receive him when he enters the house—yourself dressed neatly, the house in order, the meal ready.

Never complain or fret; but if anything troubles you, ask advice in a cheerful tone—not a woe-begone, abused one, as if life's trials had all been dealt to you, and everybody else was comparatively happy.

To make home happy, let the house wear a cheerful look and the meal be inviting. This will require no little care and experience. Be frugal and neat.

Be ever ready to oblige him, even if it put yourself to considerable inconvenience. He may have found in you many faults of which he never dreamed, and a willing spirit will aid materially in effacing them from his mind.

It is your duty to make and keep friends. It may promote your husband's prospects in life, and can do you no harm, whereas, it will be of much service to your children as they grow older, and very often be a source of consolation and happiness for yourself.

A French writer thinks that "Two women are necessary to make the life of man complete; the woman he loves, and and the woman who loves him."

There is no readier way for a man to bring his own worth into question, than to endeavor to detract from the worth of others.

Home Labor—Shall it be Destroyed?

In our article of yesterday we invited attention to the coming controversy between free trade and protection of the American laborer, whether agricultural or mechanical, and showed that the free-trade movement proposed to tax our farmers and mechanics by imposing duties on their food, while impairing their prosperity by admitting the productions of cheap labor from Europe and the British provinces to compete with their productions in our own markets, free of duty. This theory contemplates the permanent establishment of what we have always regarded as exceptional—the internal revenue system; for with our factories closed, our laborers idle, and our farmers without a home market for their grain and provisions, importations of a large amount of dutiable goods would be impossible. In this view of the case, we look upon the issue as between the customs revenue system which has always prevailed, and under which our industries have been developed, and the maintenance of a system of internal taxes adequate to the providing of revenue for the support of the Government, the payment of interest on the public debt and its gradual extinguishment. We have hoped, and do not abandon the hope, that this will not be the course of legislation, but that Congress, by the removal of duties from all raw material—whether of food or of manufactures produced in tropical and other countries whose productions are dissimilar from our own, and with which we should therefore maintain a mutually profitable commerce—and the continuance of adequate duties upon the productions of those countries which compete with us, but do not consume our productions, such as the British Provinces, Germany, France and England, would be able to make large annual reductions of the internal taxes. This would indicate a purpose to relieve the country, and thus to gradually abolish this novel and annoying system of taxation. The people complain of these direct taxes and of the inquisitorial laws necessary to their enforcement. They are taxes which, unlike protective duties, do not stimulate industry or enterprise but burden them both.

We need not allude in detail to the army of officers the maintenance of this system requires, but may refer to the fact that the collection of the internal revenue for 1868, cost $8,776,814, and for 1869, $7,394,895—showing that the abolition of the system of internal taxes, or its reduction to a mere bureau for the sale of stamps and the collection of taxes on spirits, malt liquor, and tobacco, would make an annual saving of about six millions of dollars, or be equivalent to the payment of one hundred millions of our national debt. It will, of course, be some years before this grand result can be fully attained, but it should be kept steadily in view by Congress, and all its legislation should tend to hasten this result.

Entertaining these views, we have been happy to learn from time to time that the Committee of Ways and Means, disregarding the recommendations of Commissioner Wells, propose to reduce the duty on tea, coffee, sugar, chocolate, spices, and raw materials, whether for food or manufactures, which we cannot or do not produce. This will cheapen the necessaries of life and a large range of productions of the factory and workshop, and secure to the laborer and the farmer a greater return for every bushel of grain and every hour of toil.—Philadelphia Press.

A Good Wife.

The following sentences from Archbishop Secker's "Wedding Ring" are worth reading twice:

"Hast thou a soft heart?—It is of God's Breaking. Hast thou a sweet wife?—she is of God's making. The Hebrews have a saying, "He is not a man that hath not a woman." Though man alone may be good, yet it is not good that man should be alone. "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above.' A wife, though she be not a perfect gift, is a good gift, a beam darted from the Sun of mercy. How happy are those marriages where Christ is at the wedding! Let none but those who have found favor in Gods eyes find favor in yours. Husbands should spread a mantle of charity over their wives infirmities. Do not put out the candle because of the snuff. Husbands and wives should provoke one another to love; and they should love one another, notwithstanding provocations. The tree of love should grow up in the midst of the family, as the tree of life grew in the garden of Eden. Good servants are a great blessing; good children a greater blessing; but a good wife is the greatest blessing; and such a help let him seek for that lacks one; let him sigh for that hath lost one; let him delight in that enjoys one."

"I wish I had your head," said a lady one day to a gentleman, who had solved for her a knotty point.

"And I wish I had your heart," was the reply.

"Well," said she, "since your head and my heart can agree, I don't see why they should not go into partnership."

And they did.

Trials and temptations are like a file which rub off much of the rust of self-confidence.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

W. W. BROWN, A. B. HUTCHISON, } EDITORS.

Terms $2 Per Annum in Advance.

BELLEFONTE, PA.,

Wednesday Morning, Feb. 2, 1870.

ADVERTISING.—The Bellefonte Republican has now a Circulation as Large, if not Larger, than the Democratic Watchman, and fully 600 more than any other Republican paper published in the County. Our Merchants and Business Men will please make a note of this.

BARGAINS! BARGAINS!!

The Bellefonte "Republican" and the "American Agriculturist."

We are now prepared to offer to the people of Centre county, a Great Bargain for the coming year. It is this: To every subscriber who will send us $3.00, in advance, we will send the

BELLEFONTE "REPUBLICAN,"

and the

"AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST,"

for one year. Of the REPUBLICAN we need not speak at present.

The American Agriculturist is a work that no farmer, nor house keeper should be without. As a farm-journal we think it has no superior in the world—certainly none in the United States. It is issued monthly, and the subscription price is $1.50 per annum. By clubing with the REPUBLICAN you save fifty cents, and secure more good reading matter than you can obtain in any other way for the same money.

We hope the reading public will avail themselves of this very liberal offer.

A Beauty.

It is universally conceded that our Gordon Job Press is the nicest piece of machinery ever brought to this town. Everybody that sees it, says it is a beauty.

We are now prepared to do all kinds of job work, such as Bill Heads, Letter Heads, Cards, Envelops, Shipping Tags, Paper Books, Play Cards, Programmes, Labels, Vendue Bills, and Posters of all kinds, at as reasonable rates as they can be printed anywhere outside our large cities.

This being Court week, we invite every person in town, or those who may hereafter come to town, to call at our office and see our new press. We especially invite all persons who may desire job printing of any kind, to call at our office and give us a trial. It is our fixed determination to please our customers, and not to be surpassed in the character of our job work, by "water power" or any other establishments in the country.

TRUE MY LORD.—Subscribers to the REPUBLCAN, should remember that our terms are $2.00 per annum in advance. We need our money and we are right sure, our subscribers would show a better heart, and more encouragement, if they would send on the money with out delay.

THE WORLD MOVES.—A prominent negro hating Democrat of this place, was seen to ask and receive from an American colored citizen of African decent, a chew of tobacco. All right, but we think pretty condescending on the part of the 15th Amendment.

IT is reported by a correspondent that, in Georgia, the negroes are all turning Democrats, or the Democrats are all turning negroes, he was not certain which, but thought it was the latter. It will not be necessary for Meek to go to Georgia to make the change.

TRAY, Blanch and Sweetheart, were all very good dogs of their kind; but ruined their prospects by being caught in bad company. Will not their descendents take warning from the acts of their forefathers, and reform their lives? No allusion, of course, to Meek, and Wolf, and Orvis, and the Major. Oh, no.

A DEMOCRAT of Pennsvalley paid fifty cents to "see Greeley's Lecture," and after hearing him lecture demanded his money back, for, as he said, "the man who talked was not Greeley as he had no horns nor hoofs." The money was not refunded, however, as Brainerd and Furey are not doing business in that way.

RINGS.—Rings can hardly be made of as good stuff now as formerly, as they are getting smashed generally. The Court House Ring should set their house in order and not be caught out in the cold, as was the favorite candidate of our cotemporary, for the State Treasuryship. "It never rains, but it pours," and it has already commenced sprinkling.

THE Court House Ring has become quite *Wolf*ish. That part of the Ring composed of the Commissioners, has become Furey-ous. The Wolf grew Furey-ous, and the defenceless taxpaying sheep were skinned out of $500 in one day.

Good for the tax payers. They should have known better than to permit a Wolf to enter the fold.

THE Bellefonte Watchman compares the State Capitol to a chicken coop, because it is filled with "roosters."—Fowl joke, that!—Hollidaysburg Standard.

Rather fowl; but Meek ought to know, having been one of the pluckiest little birds in the coop for two sessions.

Rara aves in terea, is Peter G. Meek.
A "rooster" whose company no decent fowl would seek,
A "rooster that "pinched" from the Harrisburg Ring,
Sufficient to erect a nice build—ing.

Mechanics and Workingmen.

The people of Centre county will remember that when A. R. Barlow represented this county in the Legislature in 1858 and 1859, a bill was passed called the "Workingmen's Bill." giving claims for work and labor done precedence over other judgments.

While the law is not what it was intended to be and does not cover the ground so fully as it should do, it is, universally conceded, that it was a step in the right direction. As it is, it has been the means of saving many a hard working man from the entire loss of his earnings.

We do not believe, as a general thing, in class legislation; but the fact must be apparent to every candid and right-thinking man, without regard to politics, that there has not been sufficient legislation in behalf of the rights and interests of the toiling millions—those who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. They, it may be, are compelled to work to gain a subsistence for themselves and families; but is that fact, of itself, not the best argument in favor of the passage of laws to secure to them their hard earnings and protect them in their rights? They are the bone and sinew—they are the real wealth of the country.—They do the voting; they place men in office, who, alas, too often forget their constituents so soon as elevated to power.

A revision of the mechanics lien laws of Pennsylvania is greatly needed. As the law stands now, what protection has the sub-contractor, the journeyman, or the hod-carrier? To remedy this evil, we now suggest to J. G. Meyer, our representative, (though not by our consent) in Harrisburg, the passage of the following law. We hope he will bring it before the House, at his earliest convenience, and secure its passage, or hereafter cease to claim the friendship of mechanics, or to solicit their votes.

Here is a chance for our musical friend to show his hand—his friendship for the workingmen.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same,

"That after the passage of this Act, any mechanic in this Commonw'th who may be duly employed in constructing, building, finishing, altering or repairing any building, may enter his claim on said building for the amount of wages that may be due him for work or labor done, and the said claim so entered shall be a lien on said building, and collected in the same way that judgment claims are now collected, and the said lien shall take precedence of all other claims not previously filed against said property. Provided, that the claim for work or labor done shall be filed within thirty days from the time payment for the same has been demanded of the contracting party or parties, and that nothing in this Act shall render property liable to liens for repairs, alterations or additions, when the same has been altered or repaired by any lessee or tenant without the written consent of the owner or owners, or his or her duly authorized agent."

We hope the mechanics and laboring men of the county will circulate petitions, asking for the passage of said law—have them numerously signed and forwarded to our labor loving member without delay.

THE Bellefonte Republican rejoices over the receipt of a new press in this wise: "The fact is, and we think we are correct, that we have the only half-medium Gordon in Central Penna. The fact is, that our friend is "muchly" mistaken. While we are gratified to learn of the prosperity of our friend, we would inform him that several in this section have been running for over a year.—Bloomsburg Republican.

The Bellefonte Republican is, without doubt, correct, and it is our friend Bradley who is "muchly mistaken." There is no half-medium Gordon within 300 miles of the section he speaks of, unless it be in Scranton. Tunkhannock Republican.

Thank you, friend Yost, for coming to our relief. We thought we were right; but when contradicted by the Bloomsburg Republican, a paper that we find generally correct, we did not feel like insisting upon our assertion; but was rather pleased to hear that half medium Gordon presses were so numerous in his section. We confess that we are pleased to learn first, that the Tunkhannock Republican corroborates our first assertion, and not that our Columbia namesake was wrong.—And second, we are pleased, not because there are not so many Gordon presses in Central Penna. as the Republican claimed; but because it sustains us in our published opinion, and proves that it was not without foundation.—We pride ourselves upon telling the truth, and seldom, if ever, publish haphazzard assertions.

The Tunkhannock Republican is a neat and ably edited paper—an honor to the county in which it is printed, as well as to the State and the great Republican party. We wish the Editor and Proprietor abundant success, and hope if they have not already a half-medium Gordon in their office, they will see their way clear to order one at once, from that prince of good fellows, R. S. Menamin, 515, Minor St., Philadelphia.

—The report of the State School Commissioner shows that there were in Ohio in 1869, one million and seventeen thousand youth between five and twenty-one years of age. Of these 740,000 were enrolled in the public schools, with an average daily attendance of 434,000. There were 105,624 school children reported for Cincinnati, and 27,324 for Cleveland. The Commissioner estimates the population of Cincinnati at 293,400 persons, and Cleveland of 76,456.

Mr. Swoop's Appointment.

We are glad to see that the appointment of Mr. Swoope, as U. S. District Attorney, is cordially endorsed by the entire Republican press of the State. Among the highly complimentary notices of the appointment, there have been none more gratifying to Mr. Swoope's friends than that of the "Altoona Sun,"—Democratic. Coming from Mr. D. W. Moore, who has known him so long, who has during all that time been his political adversary, and whose former position as Agent of the Postoffice department makes him thoroughly familiar with all that is required in this office, it is a most valuable endorsement. It dose credit to Mr. Moore, as well as to Mr. Swoope. We give it entire:

The appointment of this gentleman as U. S. District Attorney for the Western District of Penna., to succeed R. B. Carnahan, the present incumbent, whose term expired on the 15th inst., is, we are pleased to say, one of the fitest things President Grant, has yet performed. Mr. S, is in the vigor of life and possesses talents of a very superior order, and malefacters will find him never wanting either in energy or ingenuity to circumvent their schemes. The duties of the office have wonderfully increased in this district under the present revenue laws, and the business now transacted in the U. S District and Circuit courts in the Western is nearly if not equal to that of the Eastern district; whereas previous to the war, there was no comparison between the two. It used to be scarcely worth attending to, and lawyers of proper qualifications only accepted the position for the honor it conferred.

Now it is quite lucrative, and as the laborer is worthy of his hire, it is fitting that Mr. S. should have it. He has been a faithful worker in the radical ranks, and beyond all question among their most effective. That he has failed to arrest the onward march of democracy at his own home in Clearfield, is no fault of his. He has labored long and hard for it. The hard headed lumbermen of that region refused to be converted, and the radical party have only Mr. Swoope to thank for whatever is left of it there. But S. efforts in behalf of his party were most potently felt in its councils. We happen to know that about as often as his suggestions were acted upon the democracy was hurt; and it was only when his judgement was set aside that his party fatted to accomplish its purpose.

Of course the democracy will derive no advantage from this change of officials. Mr. Swoope is a bitter partisan, and will do all he can to keep his party in power. But as the office had to be filled by a radical we sincerely rejoice that it is filled by a gentleman who can sink the partisan in the citizen. Mr. S. will be found to be no respecter of persons. Party fealty will be no pallination for villainy with him. Neither will wealth, or supposed political influence, hitherto so potent in defrauding justice of her dues, find in him a pliant instrument.

"EUROPEAN MAIL."—We are in receipt of the European Mail, a weekly publication which gives a complete summary of the latest news of the United Kingdom, France and the whole civilized world, besides leading, well-written political articles; reviews of books; price currents of all the principle markets on the continent, collected from the latest and most trust-worthy sources. It is of folio form, and contains 32 pages printed in good style, and on plain and readable type, making it one of the most interesting publications extant. Besides this large amount of valuable reading matter, the proprietors furnish their subscribers once a month, with a literary supplement, of 16 pages, gratis.

After giving this publication a careful examination, we are satisfied that it is the completest news publication we ever had the pleasure of perusing, and no person who can afford it ought to be without it. Subscription price, thirteen shillings per annum. Adress "European Mail, Colonial Buildings, 44 A. Cannon St., London.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS IN EUROPE.—We learn from the European Mail, that the "Woman's Right" question, is not confined exclusively to the United States, that in London there has been established a weekly paper advocating the right of women to vote for members of Parliament, etc. All the employees connected in editing and printing the paper are women, and it is having an immense circulation. This, taken in connection with the fact that Oxford and Cambridge, the two oldest and best Colleges in England, have thrown their doors wide open to females, and girls are now graduated at these institutions and admitted to their local examinations the same as males, conclusively proves that the United States is not the only progressive government on the globe. Ladies, take courage, and patiently bide your time, for the day of your triumph draws near.

Let the "Democratic" party take courage! One year ago, James Davis of Monroe County (Mo.,) was in a most dilapidated condition. He was eighty years old (just about the age claimed by the "Democracy") and he was blind mark the resemblance!); his limbs were palsied (so that, like a "Democratic" candidate, he ran badly); his teeth were gone (so that his bark was worse than his bite); and altogether he was in exactly the condition of the "Democrats." But Mr. James Davis has been miraculously restored; his legs have resumed their functions; he has a new set of teeth; and can read the finest print without spectacles. If this is not enough to inspire a "Democratic" Convention with courage, that Convention must be more shaky than usual.—New York Tribune.

THE Freedom Iron and Steel Works, of Mifflin county, have passed into the hands of assignees, and it is reported that they will, in all probability, not be able to pay more than twenty cents on the dollar of their indebtedness.

Whenever we are convinced that the Court rules contrary to the law, and the evidence in any case, we will deem it not only a duty, but a pleasure to expose it.

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

TYPHOID and Scarlet fever has become quite prevalent in this county, and many little folks are now suffering with it.

IMPROVEMENT.—The proprietors of the bank at Philipsburg have erected a new and substantial building and placed within it, at considerable expense a first class fire and burglar proof safe.

J. J. SWARTZ, of Philipsburg, reported for the Philipsburg Journal, Horace Greeley's Lecture, delivered here last week. It was well done and Mr. Swartz deserves credit for the accuracy of his report.

DEDICATION.—The Lutheran church of Bellefonte, will be dedicated (God willing), on Sunday, February 13th, 1870. Rev. M. Officer, Missionary to Africa, and others will assist on the occasion. The public are invited.

GERMAN PAPER.—For the information of our German friends who may desire to subscribe for a good German Republican paper, we would state that the Free Press, published by F. W. Thomas, Philadelphia, Pa., is said to be a first class German paper.

GREAT FALL IN COAL.—At the regular monthly sale, by auction, of the Scranton Coal Co., at N. Y., on the 26th ult., the price of coal fell $1.25 per ton since the previous months sales. Seventy-five thousand tons were sold at an average price of $4.10 per ton.

A MAN by the name of Marks, while engaged in rolling logs at Thompson's mill, in Worth township, had one of his feet nearly destroyed by a log falling on it. Mr. Marks, we understand is a worthy hard working man, and deserves the sympathy of the community.

THE work on the new street along Spring Creek "still drags itself slowly along." Unless a little more force is added and a little more vim shown by those who superintend the work it will be sometime, if not longer, before our fast men will be able to drive their "spanking team of bays" along that proposed thoroughfare.

A CANADIAN by the name of Andy Fillian recently assaulted one Geo. Wooden, at or near Philipsburg, on the Clearfield train injuring him considerably, a man by the name of O'Fallen interfered and knocked the Canadian down, when another Canadian knocked O'Fallon down with an iron poker and then lesped from the train.

APPLES.—Our friend Edward Brown, at his Grocery store, in his new building, on the corner of Allegheny and Bishop streets, keeps constantly on hand the finest varieties of New York apples We can vouch for their excellence and fine flavor. He also has for sale a large lot of Raisens, Candies, Nuts, &c. Enterprise is sure to win, so will Ed win.

WHAT A LOSS.—We understand that Mr. Wolf who permitted the Treasury to be fleeced out of $500 the first week he was in office, has become so disgusted with Bellefonte that he has abandoned the idea of moving his family here; and intends to locate in Centre Hall. We suppose his object is to get as close to the Reporter, as possible, upon the principle that misery loves company.

INCOME TAX.—For the benefit of our readers, we hereby remind them that it is made their duty to report the amount of their income from Jan. 1st, 1869 to Jan 1st, 1870. It matters not whether your income is above or below $1000, it is your duty to report. If it be less than $1000 you have no income tax to pay. Why not attend to this matter at once and save trouble and expense.

THE miners at and around Philipsburg, were notified a few weeks ago that their wages would be reduced 15 per cent. Not relishing such a reduction immediately quit work. After remaining idle two weeks they effected a compromise and resumed their usual avocations at a reduction of ten cents per ton instead of 15 cents as proposed by the proprietors.

THANKS.—Mr. D. C. Walter, Agent for the Juniata Valley, Nursery Presented us last week with an Iona, and a Union Village grape vine. The Proprietors of this Nursery have a large quantity of the Early June, and of the Harris on potatoe for sale.

Mr. Walter is a reliable energetic agent and persons buying from him will be sure to get vines true to name. It is not always so with traveling agents.

VOL. 1, No. 5, of Hitchcock's new monthly magazine for February, is on our table. Besides being well filled with choice reading matter, it contains eight pages of select music arranged for the piano. The piece entitled "The Wolf at the Door," is one of the sweetest gems published. Our musically inclined readers would do well to possess themselves of this publication. It is published at the low price of $3 per annum. Address, Benj. W. Hitchcock, 24 Beekman street, N. Y.

THERE are 757 mechanics resident of Altoona.

THE POTTER WILL CASE.—This celebrated case was indefinitely postponed on last Monday. The Plaintiffs taking a non-suit.

SOME people don't believe in advertising because they say "nobody reads the papers." But let them get into a scrape, and you will see them flying around to the newspaper offices with the request, "Please don't mention that little affair, it's all a mistake: I don't want my name published all over the country.—Ex.

IF the Court House Ring wish to do a good, useful and needful act they should at once set about repairing, outside and in, our Court house. A little money judiciously expended now on that building in painting, &c., would save a much larger amount in the future. As by so doing would be a saving in the county funds, we dont suppose our suggestions will receive any attention by them.

THE ladies of the M. E. and Presbyterian churches of this place have inaugurated a series of female prayer meetings to which no men are allowed admittance. If the proceedings at these meetings are not quite as eloquent as those where men attend and take the lead, we believe they will more than make up with their sincerity. We have no doubt that great good will flow from them, and wish the ladies engaged in the good cause to persevere in their good work.

HEAVY PORKERS.—We read in our exchanges of heavy hogs butchered last fall and this winter but the following, which we clip from the West Jersey Press, rather caps the climax. Who can beat it?

THE COUNTY HOUSE PORKERS.—Steward Wilson always manages his affairs so as to have a good supply of hams, lard and pork for the persons entrusted to his care during the entire year. The hogs slaughtered by him this season weighed as follows: 402, 400, 398, 484, 482, 564, 480, 568, 402, 494, 406, 536, 480, 402, total 6498. In addition to these Mr. Wilson, purchased and slaughtered hogs weighing in the aggregate 1503 lbs. This will be sufficient for all contingencies, as there is considerable beef and mutton used during the year.

ROBBERY.—Mr. George W Warfel, of Philipsburg, had his pocket book containing $50 in greenbacks and a check for $95, taken from his coat pocket while busily engaged about his store. Subsequently the thief returned the pocket book and check, with other papers, but retained the greenbacks. Mr. Warfel notified the thief that he is known, and if he will return the money through the Post office or in such manner as it will come into Mr. Warfel's pocket no exposure shall follow. Mr. Warfel is an industrious business man and we recommend the thief to follow the advice given him.

IF you have a discharge from the nose, offensive or otherwise, partial loss of the sense of smell, taste or hearing, eyes watering or weak, feel dull and stupid or debilitated pain or pressure in the head, take cold easily, you may be sure you have the CATARRH. Thousands annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, terminate in consumption and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive or less understood by physicians. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., is the proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy—a perfect specific for Catarrh, "Cold in the Head," of Catarrhal Headache, which he sends to any address by mail on receipt of sixty cents. Sold by most Druggists everywhere.

THERE is quite a mania among the boys of this place, just now, for playing marbles. Every dry and level place that can be found on our sloppy, muddy and dilapidated pavements is crowded with youngsters engaged in that, to them, interesting game and the cry of "knuckle down," "innings," no "innings" "long taw" and "its my Glasse," &c., is heard on our streets from "early dawn to frosty eve."

We like to see youngsters enjoy themselves, but the way our boys conduct the game, to our mind is not altogether justifiable, as they, like some of our older citizens do not play for the amusement of the thing, but for the winnings. It is a species of gambling that should be discouraged.

LEWIS MILLS, a gentleman of color and formerly employed as waiter at Garman's Hotel, was found dead in his bed one morning of last week. He had been about as usual the evening before, and no doubt, if he could be, was as much surprised as his friends were, when waking up in the morning and finding him dead.

Lewis, in his rational moments, was admired by his many friends. He however, was the greatest enemy to himself, and, no doubt, his sudden death was brought about by his strong friendship for the "ardent." During the late "unpleasantness between the two sections of our country," Mills joined the Union army and on many a hard contested bloody battle field fought nobly for his country. Requiescet in Pace.

GREAT EXCITEMENT—An Interesting Discovery.—During some excavations opposite the Bush House, the workmen struck upon something solid and found it difficult to either dig through or around it. On clearing away the earth the obstruction had the appearance of a stump of some gigantic tree bearing unmistakable evidence of having been sawed off. The dimensions of the stump seemed to be much larger than that of the "Gigantia Willingtonia" of California. This created much excitement and it was determined upon to dig it up entire for exhibition. At this juncture one of the borough dads was attracted to the spot to see what the fuss was about. Behold his chagrin and displeasure. He called the crowd a set of ignoramuses and informed them that it was the famous Wykoff pavement.

For the Republican.

The Critic Criticised.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—

The coolest specimen of presumption shown during this present season is an article in your paper two or three weeks ago, professing to be a "Report of the proceedings of our County Institute." We are pleased to know that the writer is no teacher.

It would not be noticed by me, but for its gross and false representations. For instance, the writer states that Prof. Meyer wrote ungrammatical sentences on the "Bulletin Board"—as he calls it—which it is also insinuated Prof. M., did not or could not correct; and that out of 120 teachers present, only 20 were able to analyze according to the Synthetic and Analytic Method.

And these two assumptions, which the writer does not, and cannot know to be true, are part of his reasons for dispensing with the Synthetic and Analytic method of Grammar in the common schools of the county. He is as positive that it will never do, as if it had never been tried—and as if it had not been recommended by distinguished educators all over the country and used in the schools of many counties for years past. On this matter this Howard genius reminds one of Don Quixot, on his bony steed charging upon a mill.

His criticisms on some of the Lectures are in the same reckless splurging style. He blows hot and cold. He praises and disparages. He gives the public carefully to know, when the Lecturers are so fortunate as to agree with him. And after the sentences of admiration, then becomes in with some empty remark to make the public understand that the Lecturers were wanting in some important respect. People might guess from his boldness that he knew something, but when it is all weighed, there is really no acquaintance with science in all he writes. He always leaves the real matter of each lecture untouched—yet he writes as though he were an Oracle on Grammar, Elocution, Chemistry, Teaching Composition and Geology. He might as well have said—"If those lecturers had known as much as I know they would all have done perfectly." In this way the man's whole piece is stuffed with self conceit.

His notice of the compositions of the ladies is curious. No commendations! He gives them to understand how much they owe him for his kindness. He has not the "heart" to "cruelly criticise," yes, and he might as well have said he had not the "head" either, for his is here evidently the forbearance of inability. By some soft flattery he gets over this "Latinity that he cannot understand."

He has committed an outrage by a ridicule of the persons of members of the Institute. This is a display of his petty spite and smallness of calibre. And it is a plain intimation of his excessive personal vanity. On this point—of his own personal appearance—he is said to have small room to ridicule others. For if an adept were going to prove the "Development Theory," that the human race sprang from the "Ourang Species" this Howard reporter would make the most fitting specimen to illustrate from, that was at the Institute.

The lecture on Geology by S. J. Dorsey grated on his nerves. The voice was too strong—"harsh and stern." It offended his polished taste, not being delivered with sweet voiced elocution. What an admirer and adept in elocution that man must be! But worse than all the lecture was an offense against his capacity, for "he could not understand" it. We can easily believe this. His criticisms in general confirm it. This want of understanding was an unavoidable difficulty, however, as no lecturer has the province to confer brains along with knowledge. That a gift of more o' the "Organ of thought" would have been an advantage, is proved by following facts:

In his notice of this lecture not one theory of Geology is remembered or alluded to by this sharp critic. Nothing about the groups of rocks—their formation—order. No notice of the allusions to the Bible and science—nothing about the antiquity of the earth—of its preparation as an abode for man—or of its destiny as shown by science and revelation. These were plainly the "Latinity he could not understand."

The extent of his criticism is that there was something said which he could only call "vast research" and "Mysterious Latinity grandeur."

He heard "harsh" sounds, for this critic is an Amateur in sounds, having perfect elocutionary ears—any other kind of ears he has we will not cruelly criticise.

And after an attempt to exhibit some knowledge of the composition of a rock of which he does not even know the name, and another that he attempts to, but does not describe, he subsides on this part of his grand exposure of presumption and littleness.

With regard to the lecturer "soiling his robes" by speaking in "harsh" tones, we will ask this self sufficient critic a question. Which is the real soil to ones "robes," to speak boisterously so as to be heard by a crowded assembly, or for a spiteful fellow to pour out his gall upon any one he is prejudiced against in a whole Institute by calumnious insinuations, or ridicule of their persons? Or which is best to utter truth unpleasantly, or to write falsehood with venemous pen?

THE AMERICAN GROCER, a semi-monthly journal, published by John Darby & Co., 161 William street, N. Y., is on our table. It gives the reader general information in regard to the composition of all the articles of food used in the family, their market price in this country and Europe, as well as all other articles used for manufacturing purposes; also reliable information in regard to internal revenues and customs. It is well worth twice the subscription price to any one, which is only $2 per annum.

A CAPITAL NUMBER, is the issue of the American Agriculturist for Feb. 1st, an advance copy of which has come to hand. The tinted cover contains a beautiful engraving of animals, while through the body of the work are scattered 34 fine illustrations, some of exquisite beauty, and all pleasing or instructive. About an equal number of articles on various topics, for the Farm, Garden, and Household, (the little ones not forgotten,) include the practical experience of leading farmers in different localities, which furnish much real instruction; an important illustrated chapter on Maple Sugar Making, etc. These, with the Calender, a list of work to be done during the month, and with the "Basket" containing exposures of Humbugs, and some eighty shorter articles on various topics, together furnish an amount of useful, practical, reliable information, probably nowhere else to be found—at least nowhere for the same cost: $1,50 per anum, or four copies for $5. Single numbers 15 cts, post-paid. Orange Judd & Co., Publishers, 245 Broadway, New York.

We are now offering this Excellent work and the Republican, for $3.00 per year in advance. Send in your names and the money.

PEW BRACKETS.—We have been shown by Mr. Alferd Pierce, traveling Agent, for Messrs Bucher Gibbs & Co., Canton, Ohio, a Pew Bracket, which for convenience or beauty excels anything we have ever seen and the price is exceedingly low—only 50 cts., each. They may be seen at the Hardware store of Messrs Irwin & Wilson, who are also Agents, for a new line of bracket shelves manufactured by the same firm.

They are made of Iron, in imitation of Walnut, Rosewood &c. They are more ornamental than, wood brackets, while each article is of practical utility, and can be afforded at less than one half the price of wood brackets, thus bringing them within the reach of every family. They must be seen to be appreciated

Mr. Peirce, the Agent is an affable gentlemen—understands his business well and is an honor to the Company he represents.

BEN FRANKLIN once wrote:

"He who by the plow would thrive,
Himself must either hold or drive."

These lines were very popular, in their day, and even now they are occasionally quoted by old fogies. But some person has eclipsed them by bringing out the following:

"He who by his biz would rise,
Must either hust or advertise."

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now comple connection's made,—
An enterprising notion.
The mighty work at last is done,

And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.
No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It hanged the passengers about,
And wore out all their clothing.
CHORUS, for the end of each verse:
The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.
Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of the elegant and substantial Spring and Summer Clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

From the Working Farmer.

The Tomato--And Its Culture.

This fruit, long known as "the love apple," and said to have come from the far south, has rapidly gained favor wherever grown. It is susceptible of great improvement, though it has generally received less attention than most garden vegetables. While under careful culture they have been long in reaching their present state, the tomato has been a comparatively short time under culture, and yet, nature has done so much for it that it already holds high rank among our finest fruits of the garden. Many medical men claim for it valuable hygienic qualities, and the human system—that most perfect of all laboratories—has confirmed the decision. It is delicately acid, cooling and healthful. In hot weather our children seize the golden "love apples" and quench their thirst, while we all use them at our tables.

Since this fruit must be brought to perfection, why grow coarse, unsightly, spongy, ill-flavored tomatoes, when by attending to a few simple, but important things the finest qualities may be had?

IMPORTANCE OF SAVING SEED FROM EARLY FRUIT.

The temptation of growers for market, to sell the earliest at a large price is so great, that little seed is saved except from those maturing later; doubtless under the impression that the seed is just as good. But this is a great mistake. The seed from the fruit which ripens earliest any season will be the earliest and best the next year. There is no doubt that the tomato has been vastly improved by careful culture (and can be still further) in the desirable qualities of earliness, productiveness, size, solidity, fewness of seeds, beauty of form, thinness of skin, delicacy of flavor and richness of color.

HOW TO IMPROVE THE FRUIT.

Our experience has told us that this is the way to do it:

1st. Plants should be grown in warm, light, rich soil from the seeds of the earliest ripened fruit having most, if not all the valuable qualities mentioned.

2d. They should be grown early.

3d. During no time of their growth should they suffer from want of warmth, sunshine, fresh air, and a soil in proper mechanical and chemical condition for their healthy growth.

GERMINATING THE SEEDS IN A LITTLE BOX

For family use, (and it is especially with this view we write,) the plants may be started in a little box in a warm room; and for field culture in a hot-bed or green house. In quite a small box all the plants any family need may be grown. A few plants well cared for will be worth a great deal more than a large number ill-grown, such as we so often see crowded to suffocation and death in dealers' hot-beds. Such long, weakly things can have no value. The little box need be no more than two feet long, a foot wide and a few inches deep, covered with glass to counteract the dryness of the atmosphere of the room. Put the box in the sunshine, keep the room warm and carefully ventilated. Do not be in too great haste to germinate the seeds; but once started see that the plants get no check from want of care.

WHEN TO SOW SEED FOR AN EARLY CROP.

In the neighborhood of N. Y. the seed may be sown about the middle of February or beginning of March.

TRANSPLANTING.

When the plants are two or three inches high they may be put into small pots to be afterwards transplanted into larger ones, or into a hot-bed. The transplanting of them at least twice, or even three or four times before putting them in the open ground, (which should not be done till all appearance of frost has gone, unless they are protected when necessary,) will hasten early ripening. Each time, before transplanting, the soil should be well watered so that a ball of earth may be removed with each plant, and this is particularly desirable when they are being put in the open ground and thus their growth will not be checked. During all this time let them have all the light and fresh air that they can stand; use mild days, but beware of cold and frost. A uniform warm temperature is desirable, but not so hot as to make the plants grow too tall and sickly. If convenient, the plants, some time before being set in the open ground, may be put into a cold frame, protecting them at first as much as may be necessary.

If the above plan be followed faithfully you will have an abundance of fine healthy plants, when everybody else is scouring the country for what is not always to be found—good tomato plants.

OPEN GROUND CULTURE.

Once in the open ground they will delight and flourish in a rather light than heavy, and rich, but not over-rich, soil, and if on the south-eastern exposure of a hill side, where they will be protected from the cold winds, and enjoy the sunshine, all the better.

They should not be less than four feet apart. Keep the soil friable. Let no weeds grow. Hoe early and often, and they cannot take possession of the soil.

WHEN TO SOW SEEDS FOR A LATE CROP.

For a late crop the seed may be sown in the open ground in spring. When planted in their place, they will bear till the frost comes, and longer if protected.

PRUNING.

As the greater part of the fruit on the tomato vine is borne near the ground it will be found that the shortening of the vines will cause nutrition to flow to fruit instead of making branches. Don't be afraid to cut out all suckers and non-bearing branches, and to shorten those that wander. The writer knows that the advantages of pruning are questioned by some, but he has learned by experience, what ever may be the rationale of the matter, the results are in favor of rather severe pruning.

KEEPING THE FRUIT CLEAN.

The fruit may be kept clean and prevented from premature decay by spreading brush, salt hay, or other such material under the vines, or by training them. But if the soil be light and dry this will not be necessary especially for a general crop. In garden culture, if it be thought best to train the vines, a simple way is to set poles twelve feet apart, the tops five feet high. Attach wires horizontally to them, which will form a cheap trellis for the vines, thus exposing them to the free action of the sun and air. The flavor of the fruit thus grown will be finer than that ripened on the ground.

VARIETIES—THE BEST.

A great deal might be said on varieties; but after having tried the most popular ones the writer now grows "Lester's Perfected Tomato" in preference to all others. Though not one of the newest varieties claiming attention—having been favorably known for some years—but as many mixed and spurious seeds have been grown & sold under this name, which misrepresent the fruit and the gentleman who introducedit. the writer has takensome pains to secure the genuine seed, as will appear from the letter given below. He grows "Lester's Perfected Tomato," first, because he thinks it the best, and second, because he farms for profit as well as for pleasure.

LESTER'S PERFECTED TOMATO.

NEW YORK, 87, 3d Av. July 21, 1869.

J. PAYNE LOWE, ESQ.: Dear Sir: You know that, some ten years ago, after long and careful culture, I brought out (with no thought of making money) what has since been so widely and favorably known as Lester's Perfected Tomato.

But I find that SPURIOUS AND MIXED seeds have been everywhere sold under this name, thus wronging the public, and misrepresenting the fruit and myself.

Last year I determined to try to put a stop to all this; and I again grew the genuine fruit, germinating some seeds from which you had this season all the plants in full bearing when I visited your place in New Jersey, two or three weeks ago. I committed them to you because I knew that they would have perfect culture.

In planting them wide apart you gave them none too much room; for the green bronzedcolored vines had spread so far and were so loaded down with fruit! I was glad to see the old fruit again—its smooth and even form, thin skin, luscious but delicate and finely-flavored flesh, and its great beauty of color.

Now raise every seed and scatter them as widely as you can, for from you alone am I sure that anybody will get my Perfected Tomato.

Charge enough for them to pay for the trouble—say 25 cents a paper—and put a few seeds only in each little package, so that they may go as widely as possible. Faithfully Yours.

C. EDWARDS LESTER.

This letter shows that pains have been taken by the writer to grow what he considers the best variety of tomato, and as he feels that he can sell many times the quantity of seeds on hand, he has nothing to gain by endeavoring to give undue prominence to the variety spoken of. Those, however, who may differ with him on the subject of varieties will, it is hoped, not find the other portion of his article unworthy of attention.

Farming At The West.

A correspondent, Samuel, Foster, mentions the following incident in a letter to the Iowa Homestead:

"My nephew started farming in Illinois, about the year 1849, on a broad prairie nearly out of sight of timber. His capital was a soldier warrant worth $125, which an uncle gave him, half of a pair of horses and a threshing machine, and a man's daughter, the father of the daughter owning the other half of the team and threshing machine, a cow and few farm tools; this was the capital of both. They went on the land equal partners. Two men can often work to better advantage than one. Besides here was a union of capital of some $600, which was another advantage. They were both good workers and good managers. Thirteen years from that time the nephew said to me, "Uncle we have been taking an account of stock," (that is, valuing lands, animals and tools,) "which amounted to $35,900." This farming was not buying and selling land, but it was the value of their homestead which they had enlarged to 400 acres, and the value of their animals, crops and tools. This thirteen years embraced years of low prices, as well as short crops. About half of this $35,000 was made by the advance in the value of their homestead, and the other half was the genuine 'sweat of the brow,' and their fatted animals. A younger brother of that nephew settled some years after on a piece of prairie adjoining the first, and is doing better than the first did.

SEWING MACHINES

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE

OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 18

In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at

SEWING MACHINE.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINE

Among sewing machines, those made by the Singer Manufacturing Company, rank with the highest. Their manufacturing machines, have long been known as the best for manufacturing purposes. But within the past few years, they have given special attention to the production of a destined to win much favor in the

FAMILY MACHINE,

HOUSEHOLD.

The machine which they now offer is quie light running, simple, fast, noiseless. Its accessories for

HEMMING, BRAIDING, BINDING,

QUILTING, TUCKING, CORDING

FELLING, GATHERING,

are simple and easily understood. Its delicate though enduring and tireless muscles of iron and steel, do all the work noiselessly, better, and few will deny, "Faster than hand can do it." They urge those wishing to purchase a machine, to examine all the other manufactures before buying, as it will, for itself, overcome all the objections to the other machines that can be brought against it. Machines on hand for sale and exhibition, together with a full and complete assortmet of

SILK, TWIST, LINEN, OR COTTON THREAD

on the different sizes for the machines, by
W. W. MONTGOMERY, Ag't.
